The Energy Crisis:

Vepco has invested $396 million in energy insurance for you.

If you've been reading about the nation's "energy crisis" lately, you've probably also been asking yourself if the shutdowns and the blackouts already making news in other parts of the country can happen here.

We've invested $396 million to try to prevent it.

Because that $396 million is how much Vepco has spent – so far – to install an entirely new source of electrical power. A source that won't be dependent on the coal and oil supplies that lie at the heart of the energy crisis. A source that is the lowest-cost method of producing power that is available to us today.

This new source of power is the safe, clean, economical nuclear energy at Vepco's Surry Nuclear Power Station. Our first two units there are already in operation; and by 1976 about half of all the electricity we supply will be produced there and at other nuclear stations already under construction. That's a record the utility industry as a whole isn't expected to equal before 1990.

Of course, this investment in nuclear energy is just one of the ways we're planning to meet constantly growing demands for electricity – while maintaining a reserve of about 15%-18%. We actively support industry research to develop additional sources of energy, too. Between 1973 and the end of 1977 we'll be spending almost $1.8 billion to construct a sensibly balanced system of nuclear, fossil, and water-powered generation.

The result of all our past and present and future construction is insurance for you. Insurance that your supply of electricity won't be so dependent on increasingly expensive and hard-to-get fossil fuels. Insurance that you won't be caught in the middle of an energy crisis.

Which doesn't mean that you shouldn't be an electricity "waste-watcher." You should. But so that you'll get what you pay for; not because you might run out.

I would like to thank the Rescue Squad, my friends and neighbors and my pastor, Mr. Brackin, for the kindness shown me during my recent illness. Mrs. Grace Cunningham. 6-7-1t

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our husband and father, David S. Arrington, who died 6 years ago today, June 4.

We cannot bring the old days back
When we were all together.
But secret tears of love, and thought will keep us close together.

From our circle you were taken
Free from sorrow and all pain.
Sleep on Daddy in God's garden
For around God's throne
We will meet again.
